Give Them a Chance!
That is to say, your lungs. Also all you breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thou ands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not be there your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, grippe, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boeche's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed us, you may depend upon this for certain.

The Verdict Unanimous.
W. D. Sult, druggist, Biopolis, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given me every satisfaction. Higginson, Druggist, Oneida, N.Y., says: "I have been selling more than I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have given me their testimony to show that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the liver, kidneys or blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson & Co.'s, Drug store.

The defendants are residents of Elko county, and are sued in action of debt in the District Court of Lincoln county. Upon their motion the place of trial of the action was changed to the county of their residence, but no cause was given for this change. The court held that the plaintiff's opportunity to choose the place of trial was by amendment, stipulation, or otherwise, without the expense and delay of a motion. Vermont C.R.R.C. v. N.R.R.C.

The "Angel Wings" Mine.

"Have you any stock in this Angel Wing Mine, as you call it?" asked a speculator of an old mountaineer after they had been talking at the Grand Pacific.

"Not a dime to sell. It ain't a big mine, and it ain't a paying much, but that ain't money enough anywhar on this earth to buy it."

"It must have some attraction for you."

"Well, I reckon it hev, mister. I've had a purty tough time of it out thar, too. You see when I went out all that I had in this world wuz my boy. He were to slender to do much, but he wanted to be nigh me, and so I tick him. He 'ast to stay in the cabin and do the housework; he were more like a girl than he were a boy, amnyhow. We worked pretty hard, and after while the mine began pannin' out, and we got to hab' a lot of right well in fact, pretty smart. So one day the boy kum to me and said he hed nuthin' to say. Well, ses I, say it; that ain't nobody in the cabin but you and me, ses I. But he hed n't nothing to say, so I turned outside on the house and sat it, so I 'unered him and went aroun' back on a pine tree, and then he pulled out a piece of paper, and that was a little circle he var had ticed up in a blue ribbon. I said nuthin'. Then when he see I ses he hed nuthin' he pulled out a picter. I knewed ez soon as I looked at that picter that the har'd he showed me war her'n. Take her, ses I, for I knowd what it meant. I'd been that myself. An' then he went away, an' you don't know how lonesome that place wuz to me. Ever' tree in the mountains was jest echoin' his voice all the time, and ever' young deer that crost my track after that looked like him. And whenever I took my rifle out to kill some livin' thing I jest let the gun go down on the groun'. I couldn't kill nothin' that was livin'. I ust to go to the fort to get hard bac to live on. One evenin' two children came to the cabin. I knowd the boy and I knowd the girl, though I'd never seen the girl afore. Her face was as white as the snow on the top on Pike's Peak. Her eyes was as blue as the sky when there ain't no clouds on it. And she were no bigger than my coat sleeve. The boy was my boy. They had come a long ways and she seemed to be up yonder instead ov here. She never spoke from the time we laid her down on the furs. "She would insist, sed the boy 'on comin' here to see you, and I've fetched her all the way." She seemed to know what he sed, but couldn't talk, but somethin' peeped over her face that was the prettiest thing I ever expect to see until I meet her in the sky. The boy sed: "She's layin' on an angel's wing," and we put her head back on the furs and pulled the hair back on her forrid that was like the snow, an' we set thar all night long. The winds come down the mountain's gorges that night as if they wuz muffled, and that wazn't a coyote in all them digges as ever raised his voice. The next day we made a procession ov ourselves and put her away right down by the little catyars that hadn't stopped its music since God set it in tune, and we put quartz all about it, and then left it alone. "Sleepin' on an angel's wing," sez the boy. And we gave the mine that name.

Those who have a taste for reading-matter of a sensational character, and we believe most people have, will find in Hubert Howe Bancroft's latest volume of his Pacific States "Popular Tribunals I" much that will please them. In short, it is an unbroken record of the doings, or rather misdoings, of people in the "days of gold" on the Pacific Coast. The following little incident is only one of a hundred of a similar character described by the author in this volume:

One night, in a certain mining camp, a sailor who had deserted his ship, and was carrying about five thousand dollars of gold, and seized a third containing half dollars in silver. The jingling of the coin awoke the owner, who gave the alarm, and the thief was captured. A jury of twelve miners, with a man named Nutman officiating as Judge, tried the case. The sailor was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. It was thought best, however, not to take his life, so he was given 400 lashes on the bare back, cut off his ears and shaved his head, so that he should be recognized as a felon wherever he went. The sentence was carried into effect, and the fellow kicked out of camp. Stealing the first mule he came to, he rode to Calaveras Diggins, where the animal was claimed by the owner. Again he was tried and sentenced to be hanged, when laid bare his back was found so cut by stripes that there was no place left to whip. The miners had compassion and drove him out of the district unpunished.

What continues to bring 50 per cent more in San Francisco than in any other market, accessibility being considered. Speculation keeps it up, just as speculation often before has kept it down. The result of this concession on the part of the sharpers will be to put nearly as much money in the pocket of the farmer as if he had a full average crop. The anomaly of the speculators coming over to the side of the farmer is of a kind that is very rare. The truth seems to be that the sharpers cannot help themselves. Having lifted a heavy load they dare not let it drop. However, if we had a field of wheat just now, says the Sacramento Bee, we should sack and sell it before the "shorts" of the late deal are all filled.

Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Brackenridge must both take back seats in the matter of early naturalization. Helena C. Woolson, a Cuban by birth, and a young woman of great beauty and wealth, swore allegiance to the Stars and Stripes in Newark, N. J., January 30, 1872, antedating Mrs. Brackenridge by at least nine years, and so far as heard from giving the Jersey Lily third place.

The declaration of the German newspapers that patience with France has ceased to be a virtue leads to the expectation that Germany will indulge in it as a vice, until she can sail into France without the danger of bringing Russia on her back.

The San Diego Sun shines like a headlight. It sizes up the kind of Congressman California needs in this way: "What this State needs at Washington is a howler, a man who will ask for everything in sight and get it."

Their Last Hope Gone.

Judge Sawyer destroyed the last hope of the hydraulics to-day by confirming the report of the Master in Chancery in the contempt case of the Milton Mining and Water Company, the owners of extensive works near North Bloomfield, Nevada county. The Master, after an investigation, adjudged the company in contempt of Court and assessed a fine for keeping the mines in operation. There were two cases against the miners, and in each Judge Sawyer places the fine at $500 and taxable costs.

A protest against the Irish Crimes Act amendment bill (the Coercion bill) has been issued, over the signatures of the Earl of Granville and twenty-eight Liberal peers, including Earl Roseberry, the Marquis of Ripon, Earl Kimberley and Earl Spencer. The protest denounces the Act as a source of lasting irritation and hatred and mis-trust of law, and decries the massive deprives Irishmen of individual rights and creates and stimulates the growth of secret societies.

A Disastrous Flood.

GREAT BARRINGTON, July 26.

A careful inspection of the flooded area shows the devastation to have been more widespread than reported. When the cloud burst, the air seemed to be filled with water, and in a very short time the valley became transformed into a white-capped lake. Nearly a mile wide, the valley was inundated, and it will take years of labor to put the land in its former fertility, so deeply is it covered with stones and sand brought down by the numerous landslides. The reports of the loss of life have been exaggerated; only one body has been found.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES

A Pontifical Letter.

ROME, July 26.

The Moniteur publishes the text of a letter addressed by the Pope to Cardinal Rampolla on June 5th, when the latter assumed the functions of the pontifical office. In this letter the Pope explains fully the principal which he has followed in the government of the church. He declares that he took upon himself the mission to reconcile the people and governments of civilized States. Referring first to Italy, the Pope develops the ideas expressed in the consistory allocation of May 23d, when he laid down as a basis of pacification, Italy's acknowledgment of the independence of the Holy See. He reiterates his claims to territorial sovereignty, as an indispensable condition of settlement; all other schemes, he says, being unworthy of consideration. Advertising next to Italy, the Pope turned his attention to Austria, the Papal States, and finally to the Vatican and the devotion of the papal family to the Holy See, have rendered the mutual relations, the best possible, and wise statesmen enjoying the confidence of the Emperor, have promoted religion in Austria-Hungary and the establishment of perfect concord. France, the elder daughter of the church, was menaced by serious evils, and the Pope trusted through the channel of the letter, turning to Spain, the Pope says the first need is a union of Catholics in the defense of their religion, in devotion to the Holy See, and in reciprocal charity, so that they may not be misguided. Regarding Prussia, the Pontiff says it is necessary to continue the work of religious peacemaking to its full achievement. Great things have been done by all the efforts of the Empire, and the good intentions of His Majesty's Government. His Majesty to cherish the hope that his efforts to ameliorate the condition of the church will not prove barren. The solicitude felt by the Vatican extends equally to the other States of Germany, and those States are now happily seeking the friendliest relations with the Vatican. The Pope concluded with a reference to the missions, and the leading back to the church her separated people.

Has Sent His Report.

ROME, July 26.

Mr. Persico, special representative of the Vatican in Ireland, has sent to the Pope a report of his investigations in that country. He will return to Rome in the beginning of August.

Will Keep His Hands Off.

ROME, July 26.

The Pope has decided that there is no ground for papal interference with the Knights of Labor question. He has conveyed the announcement of this decision to Cardinal Gibbons.

It is an old-fashioned love story in these novel and picturesque surroundings. The chief characters are two young Pueblo Indians struggling against adverse fate and stern parents.

SCHOOL HOUSE DOORS.

The Elk Independent calls the attention of school trustees to the act of the last Legislature relating to the doors of public buildings. School-house doors, as well as the doors of other public buildings, must open outwardly. The act was passed for the protection of life, and its provisions should be complied with.

A DESTRUCTIVE FOREST FIRE.

YREKA, CAL., JULY 26.

A fierce forest fire is now raging in the mountains within one mile of Shasta City. The flames cover an area of about 20 square miles, and great destruction is threatening for the safety of the town. A large number of citizens have gone out to fight the flames, but as yet have made but little progress. The fire has now reached the Shasta divide, and should the wind shift around to the north, Shasta City will stand but little chance of escaping.

WESTERN DISPATCHES

FEARFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

SAN FRANCISCO, JULY 26.

The Pacific Mail steamer Rio Janeiro arrived last night, bringing Yokohama news to July 9. By the loss of the steamer Sir John Lawrence, in May, in the Bay of Bengal, 800 lives were lost, mainly pilgrims of the best families in Bengal. The passengers numbered 750, and the officers and crew numbered 50. The passengers were mainly women, going on a pilgrimage to the famous temple of Jagannath, at Puri. There is scarcely a native family in Calcutta which does not mourn the loss of a relative by the disaster.

From the 21st to the 26th of May a cyclone raged in the Bay of Bengal, with disastrous results to the shipping and was attended with great loss of life. The storm was the severest experienced in those parts since 1866, judging from the reports of the vessels which weathered it.

RENO LAGER BEER.

Soda water and gingerale. Besides, all that the appetite craves in the way of cold lunch is encased within its air-tight chambers. Two barrels of beer, fresh from this receptacle, are kept on top on a stand next the bar, where Mr. Becker and his nephew, Mr. Casper Becker, are kept constantly on the go, tapping, tapping the foaming beverage or dealing out cool, refreshing soda water or ginger ale. The room is a large silver center-piece, with cupids on either corner, while behind it is a large mirror, an oil painting and the other paraphernalia appertaining to a first-class establishment. To the rear is a spacious bar, from which dishes as usually accompany a well-conducted beer saloon, and judging from his bill of fare (lunch), which is as follows, I have no reason to doubt it meets with his customers' approval, if not with the tastes of the connoisseur. It is printed thus on the bulletin board, viz.: "Limburger cheese, swiss cheese, sardines, ham sandwiches, smoked eels, caviar, Frankfort sausages, pigs and calves feet." To this elaborate display must be added the fact that he has always on hand such liquors as whiskey, brandy, gin, red and white German as well as all brands of California wines, with Kimmell, champagne, bottled beer and Kirchenswasser. A free lunch is set on a long table every day in the year for patrons, while drinking the cool beer dispensed at the bar. In company with the proprietor I visited his brewery and soda works, and was delighted to know that our retail dealers and citizens generally appreciate his enterprise, and by their presence and purchases stimulate home industry. The brewery faces on Sierra street, and, in dimensions, is 75x50 feet. To the cellar we first repaired, which is 50x26 feet, in which are two fermenting tubs, each with a capacity of 500 gallons. To the north of these is a clarifier, 20x10 feet in dimensions. The boiler on the upper floor has a capacity of 300 gallons and is kept almost constantly in use in this hot weather, as Mr. Becker is compelled to brew three times a week to supply his trade. The cooler here is 30x15 feet, while the mash tub is six feet in diameter and five feet in depth. On this floor the grain is stored and ready for use, while a patent keg-plugger is located near by, with which the beer is barreled and then steamed by the use of the latest process at the south end of the brewery. It is then ready for market, and is bottled for family use and the retail trade. In manufacturing this delicious and sparkling Reno beer, he uses only well water, as he does in his home.

Lake Tahoe.

Referring to the "Gem of the Sierras" Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, of San Francisco, is reported to have recently said: "I have been in the habit every summer of going to Europe, but in the future I shall make my summer tour in the Sierra Mountains and Nevada. The air here is beyond description. I have just visited Lake Tahoe for the first time and was surprised at the wonders of its scenery. I shall purchase some land there and build a Summer residence. I think the people who have the means ought to make themselves as comfortable as possible. A person who could not spend a comfortable Summer there would not be comfortable anywhere in the world."

Mrs. McLaughlin is worth $4,000,000.

PERTINENT INQUIRIES.

Referring to certain crooked practices at San Francisco, the Examiner says: The Chinese gamblers contribute about $10,000 a month to a fund which buys them protection from the police. The owners of Chinese brothels also contribute $1 weekly for each female inmate of their dens to a fund which secures their protection from the police. There are at least a thousand prostitutes in the Chinese quarter, so that this tax amounts to $4,000 monthly. Who gets this dirty money? Does Chief Crowley know? Do Police Commissioners Hammond and Tobi know? The Grand Jury should try to find out.

SODA FACTORY.

This latter establishment, now under the management of Mr. A. Crozier, one of the oldest soda water manufacturers on the Pacific Coast, was owned by Mr. A. Jose, and two years ago was purchased by the present owner, who has enlarged its capacity very considerably and can hardly supply the demands made upon him for his products. The building is 15x30 feet, and in it are one of Matthews' famous generators and two fountains, besides another of Mr. Greenberg's bottle cork impressers and injectors. This latter is close to the fountain, and as fast as the filler can pass the bottle to the corker, it disappears to the wire and tin foil manipulator, and is ready for market at a moment's notice. His cider is handled just as rapidly and is regarded by many as the best production on the Coast, owing to the rich flavor of the Nevada apple. The bottle washer is run by water power taken from the Truckee, and with the hair apparatus cleanses glass after glass of bottles in a far shorter time than it takes me to describe its operations. Mr. Becker built the brewery in 1880 and ever since has been going on steadily increasing his trade, so that he contemplates in a short time to commence the erection of a commodious extension to it. He is willing to put his beer to a test with that of Sacramento or any other, while at

PACIFIC BREWERY.

HOME PRODUCTIONS IN DEMAND—

SUCCESSFUL COMPETITION—SENSIBLE REFLECTIONS—BUY BEER AT HOME.

"The proper manner to advance the industry and prosperity of any community is to encourage home manufacture," said Ben Franklin. This sentiment I first saw on the cover of an old time copy book in a log school house in my native borough of Minersville, Pennsylvania, thirty years ago, and they have never escaped my memory. There is no controversy of the wisdom contained. The philosophy embodied in them is just as applicable to the future of Reno as they were to the colonists when they threw the tea overboard in Boston harbor and defied the British Government in its application of the law which made them pay taxes without representation, and by listening to the admonition of poor Richard laid the foundation of the greatest Government on earth. Here is a lesson that might be carried over with profit by all our citizens, particularly our merchants—those of them, at least, who have large interests at stake and own property, the value of which they desire to enhance.

NAHOM.

The same time he keeps on hand, in bottles only, the celebrated Boen, Fredericksburg and Philadelphia beers. For the accommodation of his trade, he carries on his own property in his own private residence in the western portion of the city. Mr. Becker purchased these separate properties from Mr. Pat Hogan and the Masonic fraternity, and says he does not regret it, as ever since he has been buying such beer as he disposed of at present his customers have been here and in Virginia City, Carson, and other towns, give him all the encouragement he deserves.

He has great faith in the future of the city by the riverside, and says that five years hence many an old mossback will regret that he did not encourage home industries, instead of sending away his money for an inferior article to those who never pay taxes or spend a cent to the community, or help build up the city whence so many of them derive such large revenues annually.

The price of beer in Mr. Becker's popular resort is five cents per glass, which is another evidence of the enterprising spirit of Mr. Becker, and one which our leading citizens pleasantly take advantage of.

MAND M. THE WONDER.

Robert Bonner recently drove out to his Tarrytown track, accompanied by a friend, to inspect his horses. Maud S. was hitched to a road wagon and showed a mile in 2:24. She was in her usual good condition and was allowed to go her second mile, with the wonderful performance, which Mr. Bonner adds to his private record, of a full mile in 2:16 to a road wagon. It

THE MOORE CASE.

The Story of Alice's Death as Told by the Defendant.
The hearing of testimony in the Moore case was continued in the District Court this morning, the usual number of spectators being present. The defendant, L. J. Moore, was called to the witness stand, and as will be seen by the synopsis of his testimony to be printed, some "tall" swearing has been done in the case. In substance, he said:

It was about 11 o'clock of the night of the 1st of April, 1885, when I got home; Alice met me at the outside bars; she went home with me; Paradise and Mattie, who afterwards joined us, went off with the sheep; they came home about half an hour after Alice and I got there; on our way to the house there were no harsh words passed between any of the girls and I; it was about half an hour after I got home that I ate supper; I think it was ready for me when I got there; Alice got the supper ready for me; my wife was in the kitchen at the time; the girls had not at that time returned to the house; it was while I was eating supper that they came in; they sat down at the table shortly afterwards; Alice waited upon the table; she poured out my tea and said, "Papa, this is the last cup of tea I will ever pour for you." I asked her what was the matter, and she said, "This is the last tea I will ever pour out for you." I saw her shortly afterwards pull her bonnet over her face and eat something; I went to her and told her not to kill herself; I gave her an apple; she bit it, but did not eat it; she said, "Papa, are you going to sit up all night?" It was then about 12 o'clock; I said no, that we would go to bed; Lafayette came in to get his blankets; I was attending to Alice and did not see whether he got them or not; the other girls were in the kitchen when I was talking with Alice; it was about 12 o'clock when I went to bed; could not say if the other girls went to bed or not; Alice and I went off together; I don't think my wife slept with Alice that night. Alice complained that night of not feeling well; she was always complaining; it was from her stomach that she would go to bed; Lafayette came in to get his blankets; I told him to wait until I told him to go to bed; I told him to go to bed; he then stretched out, threw her head back and died; her mouth was drawn, and the cords of her neck were extremely large; her eyes rolled back a little; that was the manner of her death; her heart fluttered greatly; all of the family were present when she died; we all stood around the bed and cried; I walked some across the floor; we covered her up in the bed; I said she was gone, and we could never get her back again; we talked of her having taken poison, and then of her dying with heart disease; she ruined her health by taking heavy colds when she was only 16 years old; afterwards, at times, she acted as though she were insane, and I made her quit herding cows; when she died it was not yet daylight; I laid her in the back part of the bed; I told Lafayette to go after Mr. Sanders; when he started he was just about daylight; he did not get back until between 7 and 8 o'clock; Mr. Sanders got there; he did not whip any of my children the night of Alice's death; I did not overturn the bed; I did not overturn the bed; I did not see anything of the kind; I did not strike my son that night; I worshipped Alice; after she commenced having fits she asked for drink; she put her arms around my neck and said, "Papa, I love you;" she did not vomit; the fits lasted for probably 15 minutes; during them I told Mattie and Parrie to catch two chickens; they caught one, killed it and secured nearly half a cup of blood; I endeavored to make Alice drink it; my reason for applying this remedy was because my mother used it for fits; I gave Alice a drink of whiskey before that; then I gave her water, then blood.

Cross-examination—Was born in Oregon county, Missouri; am 52 years of age; left Missouri when I was about 15 years of age; I came across the plains with my father; that was in 1850; was never married until I married my wife; I did state in the Justice's Court that she was not my wife; that I had another woman living, but not another wife.

Being 12 o'clock, a recess was taken until 1 P. M.

Among the witnesses examined this afternoon, after the testimony of the defendant ended, were Coronel Brown, Undertaker, Sanders and Druggist Hodgkinson. The two former were called merely to testify that the body exhumed recently was that of Alice Moore; the latter testified to having made an analysis of the stomach of the deceased and found strychnine in it. He was on the stand at 4:10 P. M.

Accidents to Robinson's Circus.

An accident happened at half-past 2 o'clock this morning on the Virginia and Truckee railroad to John Robinson's Circus Company. When the company left Carson City two flat cars were added on to the train, and it seems that within about seven miles of Reno near Huffaker's, an axle of one of these broke, and the large box car containing the elephant and India cow was shattered and the flat car ditched. Fortunately no one was seriously injured. One of the elephants suffered painful bruises all over his body, the worst being on his right hind leg. He is said to have yelled fearfully at the time. The Virginia & Truckee railroad people went at once to the rescue, and in a few hours had everything righted. Gill, Jack and Charley Robinson, the three sons of the owner, and Mr. Lowlow, the popular attache, were aboard and did all they could to see that the men, women and animals were properly attended to. James Savage, a brakeman, sustained a few bruises. The elephant, it is feared, will not survive its injuries many days. The company are in high glee over the good fortune they had in escaping injury, and left this morning for Truckee, where they perform this afternoon and evening.

The same train was again wrecked at Cuba, a small station on the Central Pacific, about 20 miles west of Reno. The particular could not be learned, but as the wrecking train and crew were sent up from Wadsworth, the indications are that it was a pretty serious smash-up. Nobody hurt.

Another Large Store for Reno.

Messrs. Morris & Levy, the well and favorably known dry goods firm doing business in Virginia City and Eureka, have decided to open a branch establishment in Reno, to be known as the Palace Dry Goods House. Mr. M. Levy and his brother Wilhelm came here several days ago and endeavored to secure a store on either Commercial Row or Virginia street large enough to satisfy the demands of the business they mean to establish, but were unsuccessful. Yesterday afternoon Wm. Thompson, manager of the Lake estate, offered to build any sized store they wanted alongside of the Postoffice, provided they would lease it at a reasonable rent for five years, the store to be ready for occupancy by the 5th of September. The proposition was promptly accepted, and contracts were let this morning for supplies for a two-story brick, having a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 40 feet; the entire front to be of plate glass extending down to within two feet of the sidewalk. The store will be furnished with the latest and most improved shelving. An immense and fresh stock of the latest goods, consisting of dry goods, fancy goods, bazaar, corsets, gloves, carpets of all kinds and the latest patterns, oil clothes, linoleums, etc., etc., will be laid in. The firm expects to be ready for business by the 10th of September.

Crown Point and Belcher.

The Virginia Chronicle of last evening, speaking of the serious decline yesterday in the prices of stocks of the above named mines, says: "The failure to find ore in drifting west on the 500 level in Crown Point, notwithstanding the explanation of the management that the drift was too far north to cut the downward extension to the development on the 300 level, was doubtless the prime cause of the break, although local operators held that the management are purposely knocking down the price, and qualify their opinion with the argument that if the 500 had actually proved a failure, the information would have been longer withheld from the public."

RAILROAD TIES.

There were 6,000 railroad ties shipped from Ball's saw-mill in Long Valley, on Saturday and Sunday, for the Virginia & Truckee Railroad. Yesterday and today the tie train on the Nevada & California Railroad brought in 600 ties more on each trip. These ties are eight feet by six inches and of the most durable character. The Central Pacific Railroad Company wanted them, but the Virginia & Truckee Railroad people paid one dollar more for them per 1,000 than the former offered, and hence they captured something like 20,000. This business is quite brisk in the North and promises to become another profitable adjunct to the many that now contribute to Reno's prosperity.
